BFA's Wall Hung Library in Media
Limelight:

Wall Hung Library (WHL), a unique concept of a compact, mobile library, introduced by BFA has been featured extensively in the Hindustan Times dated 5th Sept 23. BFA has been spreading its messages, "We don't teach, we educate", through WHL which is now in schools in 21 states of India, including schools in West Bengal, Assam, J&K, Telangana and many more. We are thankful to all our best wishers and supporters in this endeavor. Students feel thrilled to receive storybooks in the language of their choice and it is heartening to see them absorb the world of stories.

Students Engage in Chandrayaan-3 Activities in BFA Libraries:

The past that passed by saw celebrations of different hues at BFA Libraries. Along with Teacher's Day, Hindi Diwas and Janmashtami, the highlight was Chandrayaan-3 mission. BFA libraries buzzed with activities as children learned about the program in detail and their eyes filled with pride. BFA librarians used creative methods like skits, quizzes, and storytelling to teach about the Chandrayaan -3 mission, its history and the people involved. Children made unique models and art which were displayed at the libraries. They were also very inspired about the Scientist community of India.
